Seven blunders of the world that lead to violence:

Wealth without work,
Pleasure without conscience,
Knowledge without character,
Commerce without morality,
Science without humanity,
Worship without sacrifice,
Politics without principle.

Mahatma Gandhi

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

THE LISTENING CURE: METAPHORICAL RESONANCES AND THE THIRD EAR

MICHAEL VANNOY ADAMS adamsmv@aol.com www.jungnewyork.com

Michael Vannoy Adams is a Jungian psychoanalyst in New York City. He is a clinical associate professor at the NYU Postdoctoral Program in Psychotherapy and Psychoanalysis and a faculty member at the Jungian Psychoanalytic Association, the Object Relations Institute, and The New School. He is the author of three books – The Fantasy Principle: Psychoanalysis of the Imagination, The Mythological Unconscious, and The Multicultural Imagination: "Race," Color, and the Unconscious.

BELONGING IN COMMUNITY IN DIGNITY WITH OTHERS: PATRIARCHY AND HUMAN RIGHTS

SHULAMITH KOENIG pdhre@igc.org www.pdhre.org

Shulamith Koenig is the 2003 recipient of the UN Human Rights Award. In 1989, she founded PDHRE - the People's Movement for Human Rights Learning - and has facilitated dialogue and training about human rights as a way of life and the development of human rights cities. Koenig has written and published numerous articles, training videos, and manuals.

THEIR VERSAILLES AND OURS: THE ROLE OF THE INTERNET IN BRINGING ABOUT ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE IN APSAA

arniedr@aol.com www.internationalpsychoanalytic.net

Arnold Richards is a training and supervising analyst at the New York Psychoanalytic Institute and a former editor both of JAPA (1994-2003) and The American Psychoanalyst (1989-1994). He is on the faculties at NYU and Mount Sinai Medical Schools, Department of Psychiatry. Richards is a member of APA Division 39, Section I and the New York Freudian Society, and an honorary member of the Karen Horney Clinic and the New Jersey Psychoanalytic Society.

KEYNOTE PANEL

Gandhi spoke of the 'Seven Blunders of the World' that lead to violence. This is reflected in David Andelman's book title, A Shattered Peace: Versailles 1919 and the Price We Pay Today. The tenets of human rights and the protection of self-determination remain a common thread for psychoanalysis, politics, and human rights. This is achieved through listening and hearing – especially in the Age of Google.

Jennifer R. Harper
NAAP President

Jane S. Hall
Special Guest

Jane S. Hall is past-president of the New York Freudian Society and a member of IPA, ApsaA, and AAPCSW, and is the author of two books: Roadblocks on the Journey of Psychotherapy (2004) and Deepening the Treatment (1998) published by Jason Aronson. She is the originator and co-chair of the annual ecumenical conference The Future of Psychoanalytic Education (www.psychoanalyticed.net) and leads private seminars in person and via conference call. Hall is a faculty member of three New York institutes, a founder of the New York School for Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy and Psychoanalysis, and she is in private practice in New York City.

Natalie Z. Riccio is a faculty member, supervisor, and training and control analyst at Washington Square Institute and Mid-Manhattan Institute. She is adjunct assistant professor at Fordham University and Wurzweiler School of Social Work. She is a NGO/UN representative for the International Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Centres (IFS) and secretary of the NGO/UN Committee for Human Rights. Riccio is a board member and conference chair of NAAP.

Natalie Z. Riccio,
Conference Chair

The major role of psychoanalysis is to listen and bring awareness/ consciousness to underlying conflicts.

SCHEDULE OF THE DAY

FIRST WORKSHOP SERIES

A WHERE THREE ROADS MEET: HISTORY, CULTURE, AND COUNTER-TRANSFERENCE WHEN LISTENING TO PATIENTS

Analysts continuously negotiate the tensions among personal understandings, cultural pressures, and formative historical events right up to today's IM world. A short talk will be followed by case vignettes and technical suggestions for the pursuit of the historical and cultural aspects in analytic work.

GLADYS FOXE, PhD, NCPsyA; gfoxe@nyc.rr.com

Gladys Foxe is the author of “‘But that was in another country and besides. . .’ Collision and Collusion in the Transference with a German-Jewish-descended analyst and a German-Nazi-descended patient” and “‘And nobody knows what is going to happen to anyone. . .’ Fear and Futility in Kerouac’s On the Road and Why it is Important.” Foxe is the winner of the 2005 Gradiva Award.

B LISTENING IN THE AGE OF GOOGLE: ADOPTION COACHING

In this “Age of Google” new avenues of social communication are made possible by technological innovation and applying psychoanalytic understanding to multiple communications such as e-mail, text messaging, video telephonic communication, chat groups, and group conferencing.

RONALD KATZ, PhD, NCPsyA; postadoptionfamily@yahoo.com

Ronald Katz, graduate of Yeshiva University and the Center for Modern Psychoanalytic Studies, is an adoption coach and consultant. He is a member of faculty at New York University. Katz is co-founder of the Adoption Circle at CMPS and founder of the National Association of Adoption Counselors.

C IN THIS AGE OF GOOGLE: THE ANALYST IS DISCOVERED ONLINE

Lijtmaer will discuss Internet use and misuse, including chat rooms, cybersex, and information about psychological or medical diagnoses and treatment, and how immersion in cyberspace deconstructs beliefs about the private and the public.

RUTH M. LIJTMAER, PhD, NCPsyA Lijtmaer@verizon.net

Ruth M. Lijtmaer is a senior supervisor, training analyst, and faculty member at the Contemporary Center for Applied Psychoanalytic Studies at Fairleigh Dickinson University. Lijtmaer is in private practice in Ridgewood, NJ.

WORKSHOPS

FIRST WORKSHOP SERIES

D COUNTERTRANSFERENCE ISSUES AND THE INTERNET

This workshop will provide an opportunity to discuss our own conflicts and countertransference responses and update definitions of narrow and broad countertransference fantasies and enactments. We will examine our responses to listservs, chat rooms, Google, political and social activism, and all aspects of modern electronic life.

JUDITH FELTON LOGUE, PhD, Judith@judithlogue.com

Judith Logue is a founding member, supervisor, training analyst, and faculty member of the Institute for Psychoanalysis and Psychotherapy of NJ. She is a board member of APA, Division 39 and a member of the APsaA Task Force on Psychoanalysis in Undergraduate Education (10,000 Minds Project).

E RESCUING HISTORY TO BUILD BRIDGES THROUGH UNDERSTANDING AND DIALOGUE

This workshop aims to show a process of raising the consciousness of students and psychoanalysts in Germany about the years from WWI to the present. The presenter will demonstrate how through the use of her family photos this experience becomes meaningful and immediate. She will discuss and share reactions and responses, which are often transmitted and enriched through the use of the Internet.

ELLEN MENDEL, LCSW, NCPsyA

emendel97@hotmail.com, www.mendeltherapy.com

Ellen Mendel is a holistic psychotherapist/ psychoanalyst. She is a board member of ABAP and NAAP and president of the Board of Trustees at the Alfred Adler Institute of New York where she is a training analyst, faculty member, and clinician. A private practitioner in New York, Ellen Mendel has presented seminars in the U.S. and abroad.

SECOND WORKSHOP SERIES

A DEEPENING PSYCHOANALYTIC LISTENING: THE MARRIAGE OF BUDDHA AND FREUD

In his workshop, Dr. Rubin will illuminate the use of meditation to cultivate “evenly-hovering attention,” and the “language and logic of the unconscious.”

JEFFREY B. RUBIN, PhD,

jeffreyrubin@optonline.net, www.drjeffreyrubin.com

Jeffrey Rubin practices psychoanalysis and psychoanalytically-oriented psychotherapy. He is the creator of meditative psychotherapy and the author of Psychotherapy and Buddhism, The Good Life, and A Psychoanalysis for Our Time. Rubin is a training and supervising analyst at Westchester Institute for Training in Psychoanalysis and Psychotherapy.

B CYBERSPACE: THE NODAL SELF IN THE WIDE WIDE WORLD – ADOLESCENTS SIGNING ON

How does developmental conflict entwine with technology, interacting in a postmodern, sometimes bizarre, “techno-cultural” form? Steinberger will demonstrate how Internet usage brings about creative aims, unconscious needs and wishes, and unresolved conflicts.

CLAIRE B. STEINBERGER, EdD, JD, NCPsyA

cstein3981@aol.com

Claire Steinberger is a supervisor and training analyst at NPAP, a clinical supervisor at AAMFT, and a member of faculty at the Object Relations Institute. She emphasizes an interdisciplinary approach, including using the Internet and therapeutic jurisprudence.

“The psychoanalyst has to learn how one mind speaks to another beyond word and in silence. He must learn to listen ‘with the third ear.’”

Theodore Reik
(1948)

WORKSHOPS

C VIDEO CONFERENCING AS A TREATMENT MODALITY IN PSYCHOANALYTIC PSYCHOTHERAPY

We live in an age where movement and technology can influence relationships. In this on-the-go, technological society we can conduct treatment with patients anywhere. Annette Vaccaro will present a case study using SKYPE video conferencing. Applications with patients and analysts who relocate will also be explored.

ANNETTE VACCARO, LCSW,
vaccaroaj@aol.com, www.familylife.net

Annette Vaccaro is a candidate at the Academy of Clinical and Applied Psychoanalysis and is representing the Analyst-in-Training Committee.

D LISTENING THROUGH YOUR BODY: BEFORE GOOGLE AND AFTER GOOGLE

Jack Wiener will offer an experiential workshop to convey how “through the body” differs from “with the body.”

JACK WIENER, LP, NCPsyA, jackarle@earthlink.net

Jack Wiener is founder and director of the School for Creative Movement and treasurer at NAAP. He is the author of Creative Movement for Children.

E IS IT STILL IMPORTANT TO LOOK AT ANCIENT TEXTS PSYCHOLOGICALLY?

Jonah's Flight from God based upon eight images derived from Biblical Masoretic Text

Certain images etch themselves into the collective consciousness, like that of Jonah in the belly of a great fish. In our electronic era, this three-thousand-year-old image continues to arouse interest and fascination. Exploration and understanding of other images from the book of Jonah has the opposite standpoint – the development of a God image and its effect on human life, social action, and personality.

ROBERT I. WINER, rwiner@neurocareusa.com

Robert Winer is a specialist in neurology, neuropsychiatry, psychopharmacology, and psychoanalysis and president of the C.G. Jung Center of Philadelphia. Winer is president of the Winer Foundation, which has carried out humanitarian and medical education in Ethiopia since 1994.
